FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

There are several businesses in Randolph, some of which identify themselves with the community, such as Randolph Auto Supply, Randolph Hardware and Randolph Upholstery. The local Randolph Lions club is active in community activities. Randolph is also home to American Legion Post 181.

Randolph has its own local public library and a fire department. There are banks, several restaurants and a bowling alley, Twi-Lite Lanes, all located within the village.

Children in Randolph attend the Gail N. Chapman Elementary School, while older students are educated at the Randolph Central School, home of the Randolph Cardinals. In addition, Randolph has its own community newspaper, The Randolph Register, published monthly (see attached).

The above facts demonstrate that residents regard Randolph as a community of its own, with a separate identity. See Keanansville, Florida, 10 FCC Rcd 9831 (1985).

No radio station is currently licensed nor allocated to Randolph, New York. Grant of this petition will thus provide Randolph with its first local radio station.

According to the Commission's web site, the official reference coordinates for Randolph are: NL 42° 09' 43" WL 78° 58' 31"

As shown from the attached spacing study, no site restriction is required as all domestic stations are fully spaced. The allotment is however, short-spaced by some 44 km to a first adjacent Canadian station, CHRE in St. Catharines, Ontario; therefore, Canadian concurrence is respectfully requested as a specially negotiated limited short-spaced allotment.

A station operating as a Class A facility at the allotment coordinates will provide all of Randolph with city-grade service.

NTCM will apply for the station at Randolph upon the opening of a filing window after the finalization of the allotment proposed herein, and will promptly construct and operate the station should it receive the grant of its application.

In view of the above, the Commission should allot Channel 290A to Randolph,
New York as its first local service.

Respectfully submitted,

With us this month

by Sandy Simmons

The weather was too hot, too fast, earlier this month; we seem to be back to what used to be "normal" May weather. Phyllis Frink brought in pictures of Henry Smith's house that was hit by a tornado the evening of May 23,

Woman robbed, beware of scam artists

Mrs. Gladys Bailey of Elm Creek Road was the victim of a robbery at her home on Sunday evening, May 21. When three people came to her door about 6:30 in the evening posing as plastic linoleum/carpet salesmen, she allowed them to enter. Although she told them she wasn't interested in purchasing their product, two persons began showing her their samples while the third asked if he could help himself to a glass of water in the Schools hook into sewer line

Many were wondering if it would happen at all, but after months of delays, faulty equipment and legal battles, the Randolph-East Randolph sewer project has taken the first step toward full operation. On Monday, the sewer line to the Randolph elementary school, which has been tied into the new system for weeks, was opened for use. This morning, the high pumped and some 7,000 gallons of waste trucked away that amount doubled when high school closed off in preparation to attach to the vill system.
